THE PALM TREE .- The medical uses of the palm tree are stated to be numerous in West Africa, by a gentleman who has undertaken to describe them. The roots are used for various purposes, but chiefly to cure bilious attacks. The oil of the nut is an excellent medicine. In some diseases, more especially small-pox, is administered both internally and externally. As an external application it is used for wounds, bruises and burns. In cases of guines-worm it is applied to the poultices.

The London Field, in reply to a query about the stride of the horse, says: "The average, when quite extended, is about twenty four feet. We never measured any above twenty-five feet, but have heard of twenty-six and twenty-seven feet."

Fever and Ague,

rom which mankind suffer over a large part of the globe, is the consequence of a diseased action in the system, induced by the poisonous miasm of vegetable decay. This exhalation is evolved by the action of solar heat on wet soil, and rises with the watery vapor from it. While the sum is below the horizon this vapor lingers near the earth's surface, and the virus is taken with it through the lengs into the blood. There it acts as an irritating poison on the internal viscers and excreting organs of the body. The liver becomes torpid and fails to secrete not only this virus, but also the bile accumulate in the circulation, and produce violent constitutional disorder. The spleen, the kidneys, and the stomach sympathize with the liver, and become disordered also. Finally, the instinct of our organism, as if in an attempt to expel the noxious infusion, concentrates the whole blood of the body in the internal excretories to force them to cast it ent. The blood leaves the surface, and rashes to the central organs with congestive violence. This is the Curva. But in this effort it fails. Then the Faven follows, in which the blood leaves the central organs and rushes to the surface, as if in tral organs and rushes to the surface, as if in another effort to expel the irritating poison through that other great exerctory—the skin. In this also it fails, and the system abandons the attempt exhausted, and waits for the recovery of strength to repeat the hopeless effort another day. These are the fits or paroxysms of Faven and Agua. Such constitutional disorder will of course undermine the health if it is not removed.

We have labored to find, and have found, an

Ayer's Ague Cure,

which neutralizes this malarious poison in the blook, and stimulates the liver to expel it from the blook. As it should, so it does come this afflicting disorder with perfect certainty. And it does more, or rather does what is of more service to those subject to this infection. If taken in season it expels it from the system as it is absorbed, and thus keeps those who use it free from its attacks; keeps the system in health although exposed to the disease.
Consequently it not only cures, but protects from, the great variety of affections which are induced by this mulignant influence, such as Remittent

This it accomplishes by stimulating the excreteries to expel the virus from the system; and these organs by degrees become habited to do this their office of their own accord. Hence arises what we term acclimatation. Time may accomplish the erac cult, but often life is not long enough, or is rided in the attempt, while this "AGUE CURE" does it at once, and with eafety. We have great execute to believe this is a surer as well as safer remotive for the whole class of diseases which are based by the misstantic infection, than any other which has been discovered; and it has still another misoritant advantage to the public, which is, that is cheap a well as good. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral has won for itself such a renown for the cure of every variety of Throat and Lung Complaint, that it is entirely unnecessary for us to recount the evidence of its virtues, wherever it has been employed. As it has long been in constant use throughout this section, we need not do more than assure the people its quality is kept up to the best it over has been, and that it may be relied on to do for their relief all it has over been found to do.

PREMIUM ON GOLD-The subacriber, who cannot change his prices with the fluctuations of gold, without incurring enormous expense in advertising the changes, is compelled to sell his Pens at Old Prices. Thinking his Custimers entitled to the benefit of the Premium on Gold, rather than the Wall-street debusers of the best currency this country ever had, he now offers to all remitting the amount of their orders in Gold the full Premium in this city on the day when received. In this way he hopes to do the country and his customers some good without injuring himself, for the Monron Pan cannot be made without Gold.
